1

Introduction to Transactional Document Drafting

Live in Denver: March 14, 2018 • Video Replay: April 5, 2018

Presented by Amy Bauer, Esq., Legal Writing Professor, University of Colorado Law School

Your expert presenter will provide you with the general components of drafting transactional contracts and developing the critical skills necessary for effectively writing and organizing such contracts. Those of you who are seasoned lawyers, but new to the field of transactional work may also find this program helpful to expand and sharpen your contract drafting skills. Included are tips on successfully identifying and drafting the main components of a contract, such as recitals, representations, warranties, covenants and conditions.

2

First Money In: Considerations for Drafting Early-Stage Financing Documents

Live in Denver: March 28, 2018 • Video Replay: April 19, 2018

Presented by Mystery Murphy, Esq., and Mike Nelson, Ph.D., Esq., Cooley LLP

This program will introduce you to the most commonly-used documents in early-stage corporate financing transactions – including convertible promissory notes, simple agreements for future equity (SAFEs), and series seed preferred stock financings agreements. You will learn the similarities and differences between each type of agreement, and the principal legal and business considerations that influence which type of agreement to use in a particular situation. The major practice points for drafting and reviewing such documents, and how the main provisions of each affect companies and investors will also be covered for you.

3

Drafting LLC Agreements

Live in Denver: April 11, 2018 • Video Replay: May 3, 2018

Presented by Adam M. Cohen, Esq., Holland & Hart LLP

Limited liability companies have become the most popular choice of entity for your business clients. Let your expert presenter help you learn the key provisions and issues in drafting a limited liability company agreement as well as their nuances. Learn how to address the new partnership tax audit regime, manager versus member management, capital contributions, allocations and distributions, tax matters, liquidation, and more. Model Operating Agreement is included. Attend and come away with valuable information and practical tips on drafting an effective LLC agreement.

4

Drafting Business Acquisition Documents and Other Related Documents

Live in Denver: April 25, 2018 • Video Replay: May 17, 2018

Presented by Albert Givray, Esq., Davis Graham & Stubbs, LLP

This program introduces you to the principal documentation used in business acquisitions. In addition to learning how to ask the right questions so you can focus on solving the right problems when you document the deal, you will learn about the importance of confidentiality agreements, the pros and cons of letters of intent, how to draft for things you will almost assuredly find during due diligence process, how to anticipate some basic tax structuring alternatives in your drafting, how to draft for the closing, and, throughout all this, how to become a "deal maker" instead of a "deal breaker." Finally, you will learn about the principal provisions in an acquisition agreement, what to look for when reviewing the document, and what you can worry about less than you might think so at first.

5

Drafting Compensation and Other Employment Agreements

Live in Denver: May 9, 2018 • Video Replay: May 31, 2018

Presented by Gillian McKean Bidgood, Esq., Polsinelli PC, and Elizabeth H. Bray, Esq., Polsinelli PC

Learn about the various agreements employers enter into with their current and former employees. Learn about the mechanics of these agreements, the legal parameters that apply to these agreements, how employers use these agreements to protect intellectual property and retain key employees, and the challenges posed by M&A activities. Our experienced practitioners will also teach you about the important provisions in executive compensation agreements, including change in control provisions, non-compete and other restrictive covenants, and separation agreements.

6

Five Things You Must Know Before Drafting (i) Intellectual Property, (ii) Privacy, and (iii) Data Security Provisions

Live in Denver: May 23, 2018 • Video Replay: June 14, 2018

Presented by Ryan Arney, Esq., Davis Graham & Stubbs LLP, Trent Martinet, Esq., Davis Graham & Stubbs LLP, Deborah Shinbein Howitt, Esq., Bryan Cave, and Christopher M. Achatz, Esq., Bryan Cave
Moderated by Otto Miguel Hanson, Esq., Davis Graham & Stubbs LLP

Gone are the days when a one-size-fits-all technology transaction agreement will adequately handle all of an organization's product and service offerings. Additionally, while many companies rely on a broad network of service providers to deliver increasingly complex products and services, using these service providers can also lead to significant legal concerns over intellectual property rights, privacy, and data security. Join Ryan Arney, Trent Martinet, Deborah Shinbein Howitt, and Chris Achatz as they discuss their top five drafting pointers when working through the complexity of intellectual property, privacy, and data security provisions.
